Cross Compliance is a set of rules made up of 'Statutory Management Requirements' (SMRs) and 'Good Agricultural and Environmental Conditions' (GAECs). These relate to:

Areas of Cross Compliance	Requirement
Environment, climate change, good agricultural condition of land	SMR 1, SMR 2, SMR 3 and GAECs 1-7
Public health, animal health and plant health	SMR 4, SMR 5, SMR 6, SMR 7, SMR 8, SMR 9 and SMR 10
Animal welfare	SMR 11, 12 and 13

 - 3) Agri-Environment Climate options
 - 4) organic farming
 - 5) animal welfare
 - 6) forest-environment and climate service, and forest conservation

Legislative base

This guidance is our interpretation of the European Commission's Cross Compliance rules.

It is not a definitive statement of the law – only the courts can give this.

We reserve the right to review our position if circumstances change, for example, if the European Commission issues new guidance or we change how we interpret the regulations.

We cannot advise you or your legal representatives. You may want to get independent professional or legal advice before you change anything about the way you farm.

The legislative base for Cross Compliance is:

European Parliament and Council Regulation \(EU\) No 1306/2013

Commission Delegated Regulation \(EU\) No 640/2014

Commission Implementing Regulation \(EU\) No 809/2014

Domestic Legislation SSI 2014/325

The domestic legislation defines Good Agricultural and Environmental Condition (GAEC) in Scotland as well as providing enforcement and inspection powers for inspectors.

Who is responsible for meeting Cross Compliance?

Cross Compliance applies for the whole of the calendar year and to all the land within your business, including seasonally rented land and common grazings.

In some circumstances, you will be held responsible for Cross Compliance before land is transferred to you or after it is transferred from you.

- if you rent or buy land after 1 January, you will be liable for any Cross Compliance breaches that occurred on the land from 1 January
- if you sell land or a seasonal grazing lease ends before 31 December you will be liable of any Cross Compliance breaches that occurred on the land until 31 December

An exemption to this is when land is transferred from or to another claimant and then they become liable of any Cross Compliance breaches that occur on the land during the period of time the land is part of their holding.

As the claimant, it's your responsibility to make sure the Cross Compliance rules are met.

This means you are responsible for your own actions (or omissions) as well as those of any employees, contractors and other third parties with access to land under the terms of an agreement.

Refusing an inspection

We will not pay your claim and we may have to take action restricting the movement of your animals if you:

- refuse to allow an inspector access to your farm to carry an inspection
- obstruct an inspector during the course of an inspection
- don't provide reasonable assistance to allow the inspections take place, including gathering and presenting livestock in safe and secure manner

We are here to help and are committed to providing good customer service. We will treat you with respect and expect you to do the same.

We will not tolerate threatening or abusive behaviour towards our people, either verbally, physically or in writing.

We will take whatever action is necessary (including legal action) against any person who is involved in threatening or abusive behaviour.

Force majeure and exceptional circumstances

We may accept that you have been prevented from meeting the Cross Compliance rules due to force majeure or exceptional circumstances.

These are unusual situations outside your control which prevented you from complying with scheme rules. Some examples of force majeure or exceptional circumstance are:

- the death of the farmer
- the long term professional incapacity of the farmer or beneficiary
- a severe natural disaster affecting the holding's agricultural land
- the accidental destruction of livestock buildings
- an epizootic disease affecting livestock

To apply for force majeure or exceptional circumstances, you must write to your RPID area office within 10 working days of being able to tell us about it.

You will need to send us as much evidence as you can to support your case, including proof that the event occurred.

We consider each case on its individual merits.
